

Family law volunteers at Rights of Women LONDON

We are seeking qualified, women* family solicitors, barristers and qualified legal executives to provide legal advice on our family law advice lines based in central London. Details of how to apply and the role description can be found here.

Our free telephone advice lines have provided many thousands of women with legal advice and information on a wide range of legal issues. They provide a safe space for women to talk about their situation and receive expert legal advice to enable them to make important decisions about their future.

We receive calls from women who require advice on all areas of family law including domestic violence, divorce and civil partnership dissolution, financial issues on divorce, cohabitation, private law children issues and public law children issues. Many of the women who call our advice lines have experienced some form of domestic or sexual violence.

Requirements: You must hold a full practising certificate and have a specialism in family law. You will be provided with advice line skills training and we ask for a commitment of one 2 hour advice session each month in our office in London.

*Occupational Requirement (Equality Act 2010, Schedule 9 Part 1) applies
